A LOOK AT SOME OF THE CAPTIVATING SPACES DREAMED UP FOR THE 2015 DENVER DESIGNER SHOW HOUSE.

PHOTOGRAPHY BY EMILY MINTON REDFIELD

A select group of talented tastemakers came together to appoint not one, but two Cherry Creek residences as part of the 2015 Denver Designer Show House. Mirror images of each other, the side-by-side, four-story townhomes presented an intriguing opportunity. The designers were tasked with working within a colorful palette in one home and sticking to neutral hues in the other. In both cases, the results were striking, original and, above all, inspiring.

◀ DINING ROOM

“The secret to designing with neutrals is layering textures and finishes. This space mixes leather, hair-on-hide, silk and wool, and bronze and woods with high polish and low sheens.”

▼ LIVING ROOM

▲ BASEMENT REC ROOM

“This room would not work without the bright watercolor pillows and the contemporary art included throughout. They add the finishing touches and pull all of the colors together. I like to be bold and have fun when designing with color.”

◀ BASEMENT BEDROOM

“In the past, I haven’t used a lot of bold, graphic wallpaper. However, after observing emerging trends this year while in Paris, New York and Atlanta, I noticed fresh, new florals being used in such a clean and modern way that I was inspired to try something new!”
